kept up in order to consume time, he would maist on a vote at every opportunity that presented itself. There would be no interference with Senators who wished to discuss the bill, but there would be interference with the purpose of Senators to delay

After a colloquy from which it appeared that if Mr. Peffer's motion were agreed to it would displace the repeal bill, the form of the motion was changed so that the repeal bill should be informally laid aside and the resolution as to national banks taken up. The motion was agreed to, and then the motion heretofore made by Mr. Voorhees that the resolution be referred to the committee on finance was carried, yeas 35, nays 21.

Mr. Cockrell introduced a concurrent resolution directing the Secretary of the Treasury, under the provision of Section 254 of the Revised Statutes, to issue certilicates, not to exceed 20 per cent. of the amount of gold coin and bullion in the treasury, and to use and expend the same in payment of interest on the public debt or any other demand, liability or obligation of the United States. He said that the passage of the concurrent resolution would allow the issue of from twenty-five million to thirtyfive million in gold certificates. The resolution was laid on the table for the present.

The resolutions of the House on the death of Representative Mutchler, of Pennsylvania, were laid before the Senate and resolutions expressive of the sorrow of the Senate were offered by Mr. Cameron and agreed to, and the Senate, as a further evidence of respect to the memory of the deceased, adjourned.

VICTORY FOR SILVER MEN.

House Committees on Coinage and Banking and Currency Given Unusual Powers. WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.-The silver men stole a march on their opponents in the House to-day, and, under the leadership of Mr. Springer and Mr. Kilgore, gained a victory, which makes it impossible for the gold men to impede the consideration of bimetallic or other financial legislation that may be reported by the committees on coinage, weights and measures, and banking and currency, during the coming session. The time-honored custom in the House has been to make the reports of the committees on appropriations and ways and means privileged matters at all times, and, when the new rules were being considered to-day, Mr. Springer, chairman of the committee on banking and currency, suddenly sprung an amendment extending the same favoritism to the committee on banking and currency. Mr. Kilgore immediately followed with an amendment also including the committee on coinage, and, although these amendments were sharply opposed, the last was adopted by a vote of 133 yeas to 95 nays, and the original, as smended, then adopted by a vote of nearly two to one. Not until it was all over did the members of the House realize the immense victory that had been gained by the bimetallists. Under this rule the committee on coinage can report a silver bill at any time and force its consideration by the House, and the committee on banking and currency will enjoy the same facilities for forcing its measures to a vote in the House. Incidentally, also, the House, by the adoption of these amendments, has broken away from the leadership of the committee on rules, presided over by Speaker Crisp, and declared that it shall no longer be in the power of that committee to determine whether free coinage bills shall be accorded shows that many members who voted for the Wilson repeal bill supported these amendments, thus justifying their declarations that they favor the principle of bimetallism, but voted for immediate repeal of the purchasing act as a means to restoring public confidence. Among those who thus voted fer the Wilson bill, while declaring for bimetaliusm, was Mr. Springer himself, the originator of the movement to-day carried out by the House, giving right of way to silver legislation. On motion of Mr. Kilgore an amendment to the rules was adopted giving the com-

consideration or whether the attention of the House shall be directed to other legislation. The roll call of the House to-day

mittee on ways and means jurisdiction over all measures purporting to raise revenue. The purpose of the amendment is to prevent such measures as the anti-options bill and the oleomargarine act from being referred by the Speaker to the committee on agriculture, as has been done hereto-

Mr. De Armond criticised the rules of the Fifty-first Congress, but especially criticised the decisions of Speaker Reed before any rules had been adopted. The then Speaker had counted quorums in total disregard of the general principles of parliamentary law. A reference made by him to the decision of the Supreme Court brought Mr. Reed to his feet, who argued that that court had sustained his action; and he said that the time would come when even the gentleman from Missouri would understand what that decision was.

Mr. Alderson spoke in opposition to granting the Speaker too great power, and sent to the Clerk's desk and had read certain extracts from the record of the Fifty-first Congress. But the very first extract read met with Mr. Reed's disapproval. It was an excerpt to the effect that Mr. Outhwaite had objected to having been counted by Speaker Reed when he had not been

Mr. Reed said that the extract was not correct. The gentleman from Ohio Mr. Outhwaite would bear him out in saying that it was admitted that there had been an error, and that the error had been corrected. The other extracts were tuen read. criticising Speaker Reed's ruling in the matter of the counting of a quorum. Mr. Reed said that the remarks of the gentleman from West Virginia and the extracts which he had read were only an echo of the chorus of the Fifty-first Congress, but he was glad to see these echoes were dying, and not increasing. The gentleman from West Virginia had, two years ago, uplifted his noble voice in denunciation of the Fifty-first Congress. After these two years the gentleman, by enormous mental effort, and by the aid of stenographers and typewriters, had evolved the remarkable literary collection to which the House had just listened. He congratulated West Virginia on having two such statesmen, one [Mr. Wilson] to lead the House, and the other to bring up in the rear. | Laughter. |

Mr. Boatner offered an amendment which practically puts it in the power of any member who is in charge of any proposition on the floor to propose cluture at any time that he thinks it advisable to do so. This amendment was debated pro and con. the consensus of opinion being against its adoption. The speeches were brief, not consuming more than five minutes apiece, Mr. Wilson, in three minutes, making the strongest remarks against the proposition. It was not, he maintained, that the majority should be protected. The protection should be given to the minority. The Democratic ideas had always been the fewer laws made the better it would be for the country. A wise man had once said that the best laws that had ever been made had been laws to repeal previous enactments. Applause and laughter. The previous question was ordered on the amendment, and, pending further action, the House adjourned.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Twelve thousand people gathered at Fleetwood track to-day to see Nancy Hanks race against time for a purse of $5,000, and to witness an exceptionally good programme of trotting. The day was perfect and the track in excellent condition. The races were exciting beyond all expectations and the day a memorable one. Nancy Hanks smashed the track record, and there was a marvelons exhibition of pacing. David Bonner, Robert N. Seims and George Crawford were the judges. After the third heat of the 2:30 class Nancy Hanks appeared with Budd Doble in the seat. The gallant little mare was greeted with a storm of applause, and then it was announced that Nancy would be driven to beat the track record-2:0934made yesterday by Directum. It was 4:03 when Doble got the word, and with the running mate half a dozen lengths behind she flew by the grand stand. The quarter pole was reached in 811/2 seconds, the half in 1:0212 and the three-quarters in 1:3412. Swanging into the home stretch, Nancy came along at a terrific pace without being urged, and passed the wire, amid a wild outburst of cheers, in 2:0634. The quarters were done in 3112, 31, 3134 and 3212. Flying

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. SHEEPSHEAD BAY, Aug. 31 .- The great match race between James R. Keene's champion two-year-old colt Domino and Richard Croker's great colt Dobbins took place here this afternoon and resulted in a dead heat after one of the most stirring contests witnessed this season. The duel attracted an immense throng to the track. Very little time was spent at the post, the horses being sent away with the second attempt, with Dobbins on the inner rail. Dobbins was the quickest to move when the flag went down and he got a slight advantage, which he retained to the quarter. There Domino began to move up. He gained steadily, and as they passed the half Domino's black nose showed a few inches to the front, but Dobbins would not be outdone, and as they swung into the stretch they were running as one borse. Then a mighty struggle began. Neither could gain an advantage, and they went as one horse to the finish, passing under the wire in 1:1235 with not a hair's difference between them. The crowd cheered madly during the furious drive through the stretch. Both horses looked fagged after their terrific struggle, and when it was suggested that the dead heat be run off Mr. Keene at once declined to accede to such a proposition. Results:

COLUMBUS, Ind., Aug. 31.-The races drew a crowd of five thousand to-day. The weather was good. The unfinished threeyear-old trot closed with the sixth heat. In the 2:22 trot in the fifth heat Pat-My-Boy led until half way up the home stretch. when General Cass darted by. It was noticed in the grand stand that Pat was reeling. His driver held him up and in line until he was past the wire, all the time calling for help, and he was led reeling from the track. In the free-for-all trot, Lang, the driver of Alvin. was cautioned by starter E. O. Lehman to wait for Magnolia, having the poll, and on the sixth heat was fined $25. The aunouncement of the fine met with both cheers and hisses, and one judge, the editor of the Western Horseman, quick'y entered a protest, but was unbeeded. CANNOT CLOSE THE GATES.

Judge Goggin Continues the Injunction Against World's Fair Officials.

CHICAGO, Aug. 31 .- A sensational scene was enacted in court to-day when Judges Goggin, Dunne and Brentano attempted to decide whether the Clingman injunction will stand restraining the world's fair directors from closing the exposition gates on Sunday. It was understood beforehand that the judicial trio were divided as to the course to be pursued, Judges Dunne and Brentano holding that the injunction should be dissolved, while Judge Goggin held exactly the contrary. Judge Goggin is the one before whom the motion to dissolve was made. Judges Brentano and Dunne were invited by him to sit en bane, the three to hear the case jointly in view of the importance of the issues at stake. Before either of his colleagues could announce their views in opposition, when court opened today Judge Goggin promptly forestalled them with an unprecedented move. He notified the clerk to enter an order to continue the case for sixty days. Judge Dunne, to whom the reading of the majority opinion had been intrusted, insisted on his right to do so. He read the opinion, and Judge Goggin renewed his attempt to grant a continuance. Ex-Judge Moran, representing the exposition company, addressed the court, referring to the attempted continuance as "judicial anarchy."

Judges Brentano and Dunne induced Judge Goggin to leave the bench, and a private conference was held by the three judges. After the conference Judges Brentano and Dunne returned to the bench and announced that Judge Goggin no longer desired them to sit with him. They thereupon retired with considerable suppressed feeling, apparently, leaving Judge Goggin to himself. Judge Goggin then entered an order overruling the motion to dissolve, and refused ex-Judge Moran's request to set a date for hearing a motion to vacate that order.

In the course of a long address, which the spectators, it is declared, were frequently nnable to connect with the case in the slightest degree, Judge Goggin said that the lawyers were trying to force on the court an old English law that the acts of the Legislature were powerless to turn over to a corporation land which had been purchased by the people for specific park purposes. He added that there were twentyfour roads running into Jackson Park now, and that the park is ruined.

It is denied that Judge Goggin was under the influence of liquor. He is said to have declared in private, for several days past, that he would enter an order that would defeat the dissolution of the injunction, and that would prevent the people being robbed of that for which they had paid. The scene in court was exciting in the extreme. The attorneys stood on chairs and crowded about the bar eager to catch every word. Amidst all of the confusion, with bailiffs loudly pounding the bench in vain effort to restore order, Judge Goggin insisted that his minute clerk should enter the order in conformity with his verbal opinion, and this was done. The order denies the motion to dissolve the injunction. No record was made to correspond with the decision of Judges Dunne and Brentano, and, as a result, the only order now standing in the case permits the gates of the exposition to remain open on Sundays. If Judge Goggin's remarkably sixty days' continuance holds good the world's tair will be at an end before it can be finally settled by law whether or not the exposition should or should not be open on Sunday. Judge Goggin made this statement in explanation of his action: "I have respect for the Chief Justice of the United States. and a good deal for Judge Stein, who granted the injunction. To set aside an order granting an injunction in this case would cause the people of this State to lose confidence in its judiciary."

WORLD'S FAIR NOTES.

Crawfordsville Breeders Awarded Prizes for Hackney Horses-Special Celebration.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. CHICAGO, Aug. 31.-The judges of live stock at the world's fair to-day finished an ardnous day's labor in the stock pavilion at 6 o'clock this evening. Hackney horses were judged by Mr. A. C. Cassatt, of Philadelphia, and Guerr sey cattle by W. B. Hoard, of Fort Atkinson, Wis., according to programme, but a great many Holstein, Guernsey and Jersey cattle were also passed upon. The hackneys of Streicker Brothers, of Springfield, Ill., and those of Thompson & Brande, of Crawfordsville, Ind., captured the principal premiums. Guernsey cattle awards were given to A. J. Cassatt, of Berwyn, Pa.; N. K. Fairbanks, of Lake Geneva, Wis., and G. Howard Davison, of Millbrook, N. Y., Mr. Cassatt winning the largest number. Premiums in the German coachers' class were won by A. B. Holbert, of Greely, Ia.; E. Knott & Co., of Waverly, Ia.; Ulfert Poppen, of German Valley, Ill.; C. Codes and H. Gerdes, of Germany, and Ottman Bros., of Watseks, Ill. For French coachers, M. W. Dunham, of Wayne, Ill., won practically all the first prizes. T. B. Cooper, of Coopersburg, Pa., got the first awards for Jersey cattle, and D. F. Wilber, of Oneonta, N. Y., fared as well in Holsteins.

Secretary Dickinson, of the world's fair national commission, received from Secretary Carlisle to-day a telegram requesting him to increase the amount of his bond as disbursing officer at the fair from $25,000 to $75,000. Mr. Carlisle's telegram also said that complaints had been received at his office about the delay in paying the vouchers of foreign and domestic judges. Secretary Dickinson has received only three drafts from Washington for the payment of judges, one for $20,000, one for $15,000 and the other for $5,000. The first amount was paid out in two days, the second in one and the last in two hours. The delay has been in getting money to Chicago from Washington, and not in disbursing it here. Secretary Dickinson will increase his bond to the amount asked for, so that larger sums can be sent and the vouchers quickly paid.

This being the anniversary of the birthday of the young Queen of Holland the royal Netherlands commission and all Hollanders, generally, united in a celebration at the world's fair. It is estimated that fully ten thousand Hollanders and those of Dutch-American birth and parentage honored the occasion by their attendance. The formal ceremonies of the day were at Festival Hall. Aug. 31 is the birthday of the little Queen, who is the sole living descendant of Prince William the Silent of Orange, who secured the independence of the Netherlands. She is thirteen years old to-day. This is the first great gathering of Dutchmen ever held in the West, and large delegations arrived from lows, Nebraska, Michigan and Wisconsin. After the ceremontes were completed at Festival Hail there was a procession of all the participants of the festival to the Javanese village in the Midway Plaisance.

Special festivities were held to-day in recognition of the seventeenth anniversary of the commencement of the reign of his Imperial Majesty Abdul Hamid, Sultan of the mortars. The paid admissions to the world's fair to-day were 147,084.

IT SEEMS A HAPPY FAMILY

Jennie Burk Swallows a Heavy Dose of Morphine and Falls on the Street.

Her Recovery Doubtful-Her Mother and Sister Quarrel Over Her Bed as to the Cause of the Deed.

Jennie Burk, a blonde-haired and exceedingly pretty girl of eighteen, battled with the grim destroyer last night, her agony having been brought on by a deadly dose of morphine. The drug was taken on Fort Wayne avenue, about 10 o'clock, while the girl was walking with a young man named David Chridster and her sister, Carrie James. The latter is divorced from her husband, and with her sister resides in the Empire Block, at the corner of Alabama street and Massachusetts avenue. Chridster lives in the country, but seems to be an acqaintance of the girls, and yesterday evening came in to spend an evening at their home. They went out to supper together and about 9 o'clock waiked over to the house of some acquaintances on Fort Wayne avenue, where they remained until about 10 o'clook. The Burk girl during the evening appeared cast down in spirits, and when they started to return home seemed to be acting queerly. The trio walked toward Central avenue to get a car, but just as they passed Bushman's grocery the Burk girl, with a groan, threw up her hands and sank upon the sidewalk. Her sister, knowing that she carried morphine in the pocket of her waist, felt for the package, and finding it gone, at once realized what the trouble was, and with the assistance of Chridster carried the victim into the Thornburg drug store, at No. 90 Fort Wayne avenue, a half square away. The girl was in a serions condition, and the druggist summoned Dr. Kimberlin, who made a futile effort to revive her. The physician recognized the case as a grave one and had the city ambulance called. The apparently dying girl was taken to her home in the Empire Block, where Dr. Thrasher labored with her for several hours with various remedies. He finally decided that the patient had a chance of recovery. Mrs. James, the sister of the victim, was loath to express herself as to the probable cause of the act and kept a watchful eye upon her mother and young Chridster lest they should say something that would throw light on the case. The mother was eager to explain the matter, and attempted to talk, but was ordered by her daughter, in no gentle manner, to keep quiet. Once the old lady, with a dramatic gesture toward the man who had accompanied the women on the street, exclaimed:

"He is the cause of all this trouble!" She was immediately silenced by Mrs. James. who, with much indignation, remarked with reference to her mother: "She is the cause of this, herself, She treats Jennie and I like brutes. Here's a great scar on my forehead where she struck me yesterday." She further explained that her sister had been badly treated by her mother, and preferred death to living as they had been. She stated that her sister had attempted suicide once before on account of their mother's harsh treatment, and that for the last several days she has been carrying morphine around in her pocket with the probable intention of repeating the act. Contrary to her daughter's statement, the mother says that both are willful, and that she objects to their keeping company with young men and of running about the street. She says this is the extent of her harsh treatment. AMUSEMENTS.

ENGLISH'S-"A RAILROAD TICKET." "A Railroad Ticket," revamped and in new dress, opened English's Opera House to a good house last night, and the show. with Harry Porter and other new lights. took immensely. One of the most interesting features of the evening escaped the attention of the audience. The management of the play is thrifty, and in one scene it embellishes a cigar stand with advertisements of various kinds, usually working in a local "ad." Last night it had one for a local ticket-brokerage firm. Dickson & Talbott heard of it before the curtain went up and informed the manager, W. W. Freeman, that the curtain should not go up until the sign came down. There was a warm argument and much talk of lawyers and damage suits, but the curtain finally went up and the play went on smoothly. NOTES. The bill was changed at the Park Theater vesterday, and two large audiences saw "After Seven Years," as presented by Mr. Kelly and his company. The piece is full of sensational features. It will run the remainder of the week. Hanlon's new "Superba" company, which is now rehearsing day and night here, inclades more than fifty people, and has three carloads of scenery and mechanical devices. William Hanlon himself is here directing the rehearsals. The company will begin a week's engagement at English's next Sunday night. All the tricks and special features are new in "Superba" this season, and the production promises to be a most interesting one. Evans & Hoey's Comedy Company, which this season includes twenty-five people, a number of whom were brought over from London, will arrive here to-morrow, and will begin their engagement in the tenth last series of "A Parlor Match," at the Grand, on Sunday night. Mr. Hoey has a number of new songs from the English music ball, and all the specialties are new. The three sisters Merrilees, are featured in the company this season, and Minnie French is still the "Innocent Kidd" of the cast.

Two young colored men, Valua Nave and John Taylor, were arrested last night on Indiana avenue by patrolmen Wheeler and Simpson. The officers placed a charge of assault and battery against the prisoners and believe they are the men who assaulted John Lang, the Bates House bell boy.

Wednesday night. Queer Character Taken Iu.

Officer Corrigan yesterday arrested a young man, who gave the name of Golden, on the charge of vagrancy. The prisoner was on the sleek order, and claimed to be a New Yorker. He had on his person a number of mysterious scraps of papers, among which was a check on the Merchants' National Bank. The paper was drawn up in a way that battled all attempts at reading, and had evidently been prepared on the cipher plan. Another bit of paper found in the prisoner's pocket read: "Charles A. Grover, the wealthiest citizen in Indianapolis." The young man has been seen in the attitude of a street beggar for several days.

Fought About "Indiana."

While discussing the figure "Indiana," at the base of the monument, last night, two men named Chambers and Rosenberg become involved in a fight. Chambers came ont of the struggle a victor and was arrested by Constables Cook and Holmes. When searched at the station house an ugly looking knife with the blade open was found on his person. Had the trouble not ceased when it did the point of the weapon would doubtless have found its way into Rosenberg's flesh. Movements of Steamers,
